FULTON STREET GALLATIN PLACE AND LIVINGSTON STREET.

WITH PISTOL AND RAZOR.

BURNS SHOT HIS WIFE AND CUT HIS OWN THROAT.

HE DIED ALMOST INSTANTLY, BUT THE WOMAN LIVED A SHORT TIME—TOLD OF THE MURDER IN A SALOON, THEN WENT HOME AND KILLED HIMSELF.

After shooting and mortally wounding his wife, Annie, in their apartments, on the second floor of No. 48 Steuben-st., early yesterday morning, Michael Burns, who had been employed as a machinist in McDermott & Howard's machine factory, at Park-ave, and Schenck-st., walked slowly to the saloon on the corner, where he drank two glasses of beer, told the few loungers present of his crime and then, returning to his home, shut himself into his room and cut his throat with a razor, inflicting a wound that caused almost instant death. Burns, who was forty-three years old, was dead when the ambulance surgeon arrived. His wife, who was three years his junior, and who had two bullet wounds through her lungs, was still alive when the doctor arrived, but she died while being carried in an ambulance to the Homeopathic Hospital.

There were two boarders, one of whom slept in an adjoining room. Burns shot his wife, the boarder, whose name is Thomas Hillman, jumped up at the sound of the pistol shot, and found Mrs. Burns lying on the floor. Her husband had started down the stairs and around Edward Gorman, who roomed on the second floor, went out to look for a policeman and summon an ambulance. Burns, who had left the house through the rear door and gone to the saloon, returned to the house, and as he was about to leave the saloon, Burns astonished the proprietor and several others by saying that he had shot his wife and expected to go to the chair for the chair after he had left the saloon, or even fully to realize that he was telling the truth. Evidently Burns changed his mind about returning directly to his home, having decided to kill himself. As he reached the door of the stairs he saw the unconscious form of his wife. As he was about to go down the stairs, he saw the unconscious form of his wife. As he was about to go down the stairs, he saw the unconscious form of his wife.

Annie was no answer, and Burns kissed his wife, laid her head back on the carpet and went into his bedroom. Gorman, who had been in search of a policeman, returned to the room at the same time. They arrived about the same time. Burns, with Ambulance Surgeon Pinkham, of the Homeopathic Hospital, while the doctor gave his medical attention to the wounded woman, the police searched the apartment for Burns. They found him on the floor with one child, a boy eight years old. He was sleeping in a room off the parlor, but was awakened by the confusion in the house. When he awoke he found the little fellow, they took him away and turned him over to Mrs. Margaret Mc-
